

The Henry N. Barkhausen Award for Original Research in Great Lakes Maritime History

The Henry N. Barkhausen Award is sponsored annually by the Association for Great Lakes Maritime History (AGLMH) to recognize and encourage new research in the field of Great Lakes maritime history. The Association is a network of approximately 300 institutional and individual members from throughout the United States and Canada who are involved in preserving and interpreting the region's unique marine heritage. Submissions for the Barkhausen Award will be accepted from any person(s) involved in the field of maritime history research regardless of formal training.

Requirements for Entrants

1. Authors must be able to attest that submissions have not been previously published.
2. The paper must include original research using primary source materials (manuscripts, photos, government documents, contemporaneous news reports) or archeological findings. Writers are encouraged to utilize the archives of AGLMH member institutions. (Potential entrants may contact the Research and Publication Committee for a list of member institutions.)
3. All sources must be properly documented. Either endnotes or footnotes are acceptable. A bibliography is also required.
4. Book-length manuscripts will not be accepted. However, excerpts or abridgements of larger works may be submitted as long as the total length is 75 pages or less, including notes and bibliography.
5. The manuscript must not contain the author's name or any hints of authorship. The author's identity will not be revealed to the jurors.
6. The submission must contain a cover letter or e-mail incorporating a one-paragraph abstract of the paper, the author's full name, and the title of the paper. The abstract can be included in a separate document (with title and author's name).
7. A self-addressed, stamped envelope should accompany manuscripts if the authors wish to receive them back.
8. Entries may be submitted in hardcopy or electronically (Microsoft Word or Adobe PDF).
9. Author(s) may submit copies of illustrative material. Originals will not be accepted and the AGLMH will not assume responsibility for loss of or damage to manuscripts or illustrations.
10. Entries must be emailed or postmarked by May 15.

Judging

Each entry which meets the above guidelines will be judged by a panel of readers who will not know the authorship of the manuscript. Judges will rate each entry on the following:

1. Form -- is the entry clearly written and are sources documented? Readability -- does the entry present the information in an understandable manner?
2. Documentation -- does the author question his/her sources; and does he/she make critical use of the work of others?
3. Originality -- does the entry add to the field's knowledge or understanding?
4. Impact -- how significant is the entry's contribution to our knowledge or understanding of Great Lakes maritime history?

Subject Matter

Entries should address an aspect of Great Lakes maritime history. Examples of subject areas follow. This list, however, is not meant to restrict entrants to these topics alone.

1. Commerce and trade on the Great Lakes
2. Harbor or port development
3. Shipbuilding and design
4. History and influence of governmental agencies such as the Life Saving Service, Army Corps of Engineers, Bureau of Marine Inspection, etc.
5. Vessel or fleet history
6. Biography of Great Lakes mariners, shipbuilders or promoters of waterborne commerce
7. Passenger service on the lakes
8. Technological advances affecting Great Lakes shipping
9. Great Lakes fishing industry
10. Lighthouses, light ships, navigational aids
11. Work of marine artists on the lakes
